CHESTERBROOK WOODS, MCLEAN, VA

Introducing The Barn, a relaxed luxury by Artsy Homes, where timeless elegance blends effortlessly with refined comfort. A true expression of modern sophistication. From serene retreats in Washington, D.C. to countryside escapes reimaged in an urban setting, every detail of this home tells a story in the heart of Chesterbrook Woods, one of McLean's premier neighborhoods.

The exterior captivates with meticulous craftsmanship. Twelve-foot beams at the front entrance complement intricate stonework, while a grand Canadian maple Andersen door exudes striking presence. French gas lanterns paired with RH light fixtures add refined charm. A metal roof blends seamlessly with premium architectural shingles, and the faade combines stone with Shou Sugi Ban siding, accented by thoughtful landscaping that completes this cohesive architectural statement.

At the heart of the home is a breathtaking thirty-foot-high lounge crowned with sixteen-foot windows, featuring a reclaimed roof rafter from 1847, salvaged from the last cotton mill of Virginia, that invites cascades of natural light throughout the day. The room, wrapped in century-old rugged heart pine and dark textured brick, carries a stillness that resonates deeply. Exposed roof rafters meticulously wrapped in birch wood add organic warmth to the soaring volume and create a space where serene grandeur meets quiet storytelling. Suspended above, the Arcachon Round brass chandelier anchors the room with rhythmic grace. Below, a custom-built fireplace framed by built-in bookshelves offers both intimacy and presence.

The kitchen is an artful composition of form, light, and texture. A ten-foot brass-textured waterfall countertop exudes understated charm, while sun-filled windows invite the day's shifting moods. The Fulcrum Pendant, with its hand-blown glass and brass, hovers sculpturally, casting a gentle glow. Limestone walls evoke the Tuscan countryside's earthy timelessness. Chevron white oak floors, soft-toned cabinetry, and polished brass hardware from the Camden Collection, inspired by mid-century French and Italian design, blend quiet confidence with craftsmanship. Reclaimed beams paired with structural I-beams create a dialogue between history and modernity, making the kitchen a celebration of refined restraint and comfort.

A slatted ceiling designed and constructed onsite guides you toward the dining area with a rhythm that feels intentional and fluid. There, a Tiered Rectangular Chandelier from the Marignan Collection, composed of more than one thousand crystal elements, takes center stage. Its interlocking formations float effortlessly, casting a shimmering cascade of light that fills the space with quiet drama.

The Thaddeus Powder Room collection, inspired by the surreal artistry of Salvador Dalí and Diego Giacometti, features hand-forged metals, a bespoke custom sink, and refined fixtures that intertwine with effortless sophistication, resonating with the home's cohesive aesthetic. (This offers just a glimpse of the main level, with even more to explore throughout the home.)

At its core, Artsy Homes believes every house should tell a story, with each space unfolding as a meaningful chapter that endures over time, crafting environments that awaken reflection and wonder, where elegance and beauty invite you to slow down, breathe deeply, and embrace the true essence of feeling at home.
